
ASMITA SODHI, Dalhousie University

PBL: Pandemic-Based Learning

Math projects are not revolutionary, but they are a way to get away from traditional testing and increase engagement with material in the online environment. In this video, I'll discuss why I chose to incorporate project-based learning into my seven-week, asynchronous online linear algebra course earlier this summer, and some of the student creativity that came out of it.