RUIZHONG WEI, Lakehead University
On coded caching schemes

Coded caching schemes are used to reduce the network traffic during the peak time by using the local caching to store some information during the off peak time. In this talk, we will introduce two recent results about the construction of coded caching schemes.