
BRIAN FORREST, University of Waterloo

Teaching Mathematics Online: Then, Now and Going Forward.

In this talk I will look back at nearly 20 years of developing and teaching online mathematics courses. I will start with a brief over view of where we came from and then focus on how things have changed, particularly over the last year. I will end the talk with some thoughts on where we might go from here.