
EMMANUEL LORIN, Carleton University

Informed Normalized Gradient Flow Method for Point Spectrum in Spectral Gaps: Application to Edge-State Computation

This presentation is devoted to the derivation of a physics-informed normalized gradient flow method for the computation of eigenvalues in spectral gaps, namely eigenvalues located between two continuous spectra. We present a mathematical analysis of the algorithm together with numerical experiments in the context of edge-state computation in photonic graphene.