
LUKE POSTLE, University of Waterloo
Improved Bounds on the Chromatic Number

In 1998, Reed proved that the chromatic number of a graph is bounded away from its maximum degree and towards its clique number. We examine various generalizations of this result, specifically in regards to list coloring, local versions, and maximum average degree.