ASSAF SHANI, Harvard University
Classification by sequences of countable sets of reals

We study Borel equivalence relations which can be completely classified by countable sequences of "definably countable" sets of reals. We define an equivalence relation which is arguably maximal with this property, and study it in comparison to other known Borel equivalence relations.