

---

FRED BRAUER, University of British Columbia

Epidemic models with heterogeneous mixing

We formulate and analyze an epidemic model in a population with groups having different contact rates and proportionate mixing between groups. We obtain a general expression for the reproduction number and the final size of the epidemic. We are able to carry out these calculations also if treatment of infectives is incorporated into the model.