LAURA DEMARCO, University of Illinois at Chicago, Chicago, IL, USA
Polynomial escape combinatorics

In dynamical space $\mathbb{C}$, collapsing each connected component of a level set of the escape-rate function to a point yields a tree. I will describe a parameter-space analog: if you collapse each connected component of a fiber of the critical escape-rate map, you obtain a space of "augmented trees".