
BERT HARTNELL, Saint Mary's University, Halifax, NS

On Scheduling the Watchmen

Given a network G and an integer t , we would like to determine the minimum number of watchpersons required, and their routes (rounds), so that the maximum time that any node is not monitored (no watchperson in its closed neighbourhood) is t . As this is difficult in general we will attempt to characterize some classes of graphs for which it is easy to do.