MAN-DUEN CHOI, University of Toronto, 40 St. George St., Toronto, Ontario, M5S 2E4
What sort of non-commutative analysis is needed in quantum computing?

Suddenly, the era of quantum computers arrives. We need matrix analysis to tackle some concrete problems in the confusing world of non-commutative geometry and non-commutative probability.