
CHOI MAN-DUEN, University of Toronto, Toronto, Canada

Magic in non-commutative computation

Suddenly, the era of quantum computers arrives, where non-commutative matrix analysis will play a central role in many concrete applications.

Herein, I will show the hidden truth/myth in some sorts of magical computation, in connections to operator inequalities.