JIANHONG WU, Laboratory for Industrial and Applied Mathematics, York University
Modelling Tick-borne pathogen co-feeding transmission

We develop a novel dynamical model for vector-borne disease transmission involving co-feeding and systematic transmission routes. We show that vector-to-host attachment and host grooming behaviors combined may generate nontrivial tick-over-host density distribution and vector population dynamics.