

---

EMMANUEL LORIN, Carleton University

Some recent advances in scientific machine learning for quantum chemistry

In this talk, I will present some recent trends in scientific machine learning applied to electronic structure calculation and time-dependent quantum dynamics. An application to the interaction of electromagnetic fields with molecules will be discussed.