

---

MAN-DUEN CHOI, University of Toronto

What sort of non-commutative analysis is needed in quantum information theory?

I was totally surprised that all of my earliest research in the 1970s has been used intensively in the recent development of quantum computers. By all means, I need to seek the new meanings of the old values of completely positive linear maps in the setup of non-commutative matrices.