THOMAS DECKER, McGill University, School of Computer Science, 3480 University Street, Montreal, Quebec, H3A 2A7
Symmetric measurements attaining the accessible information

A theorem of Davies states that for symmetric quantum states there exists a symmetric POVM maximizing the mutual information. To apply this theorem the representation of the symmetry group has to be irreducible. We obtain a similar yet weaker result for reducible representations.