
DYLAN THURSTON, Indiana University, Bloomington

Degenerating Riemann surfaces and elastic graphs

We study degenerating families of open Riemann surfaces, and in particular when one degenerating family conformally embeds in another in a given homotopy class. Using a characterization of conformal embeddings via extremal length, we show that, under suitable hypotheses, conformal embedding is captured by suitable elastic graphs associated to the degenerations.