
THOMAS WONG, Heriot-Watt University

Fostering Global Teaching Teams in a pandemic.

The pandemic created opportunities for us to reflect and develop new effective teaching collaborations. With campuses in UK, Dubai, and Malaysia, cross-campus teaching teams became a necessity at Heriot-Watt University to address the pedagogical and technological challenges required to teach effectively in this new medium. Within courses, we leveraged this opportunity to develop strong collegial collaborations and student-led initiatives that provides a sustainable teaching/mentoring model as we transition to a post-pandemic world.